

Monday 02 May 2016

Lohit Libraries launch website

LOHIT | May 01 | NIC Roing has fulfilled its social mandate to reach out to serve the masses for which it deserves kudos, said Lohit DC Danish Ashraf after launching Lohit Youth Library Network website (www.lohit-libraries.org) here today.

Lauding the young library volunteers, Ashraf assured all support to strengthen the library movement.

Additional DIO Chow Willa Namshoom, designed it out of way as contribution to library movement supported by DIO Yagru Linggi, demonstrated its salient features. He assured that the website would be put on 'My Lohit' mobile application being developed for the district.

A team of reader-activists from Wakro & Medo APNE Libraryy presented a session of book reading, recitation & story-telling to the gathering.

Sailu Bellai of Tafrogam VKV Alumni Education Society (ViTAES), which runs the Bamboosa Library, here and Lohit Youth Libraries coordinator S. Mundayoor also spoke.

<http://www.arunachaltimes.in/website-for-lohit-libraries-launched/>

Website for Lohit Libraries launched

May 2, 2016

ITANAGAR, May 01: NIC Roing has fulfilled the social mandate of NICs to reach out to the people to serve them, and they deserve all kudos, said Lohit Deputy Commissioner Danish Ashraf.

Launching the website of the Lohit Youth Library Network in Tezu on Sunday, Ashraf hoped the website would help mobilise support from all around the world to spread and promote reading habits across the state. Referring to the Arabian Nights stories that helped him to master Urdu, he advised the students to read extensively.

He assured that the library website would be put on the "My Lohit" mobile app that he is making for the district.

The DC also assured all support and patronage from the District administration to strengthen the Library Movement. The website was designed by Addl DIO, NIC Roing Chow Willa Namshoom as a token contribution to the Library Movement with the active support of his colleague Yagru Linggi.

Elaborating on the website design, Chow Willa Namshoom, explained how the 'Drupal' system enables even activists from distant library units to themselves upload data, without waiting for a central web-administrator. A team of reader-activists from APNE Library, Wakro and Medo Library presented a session of book reading, recitation and story-telling on the occasion before the guests demonstrating how the activists strive to stimulate interest in reading among the youth and parents.

Lohit Libraries launches website

May 2, 2016 Home, Local News No comments

Lohit Libraries launches website

<http://echoofarunachal.in/newecho/2016/05/02/lohit-libraries-launches-website>

Tezu, May 1: NIC Roing has fulfilled the social mandate of NICs to serve the people, complimented Lohit DC Danish Ashraf while launching the website of Lohit Youth Library Network here today in presence of a number of govt officials, NGO members, library volunteers and reader activists.

Referring to the Arabian Nights stories that helped him to master Urdu, he advised the students to read extensively. “The website should definitely help mobilise support from all around the world to spread and promote reading habits across the state,” the DC said and assured that the library website would be put on the “My Lohit” mobile app he is making for the district.

The website – www.lohit-libraries.org – was designed by Addl. DIO, NIC Roing Chow Willa Namshoom as a token of contribution to the library movement, with active support of DIO Yagru Linggi. Elaborating on the website design, Namshoom explained how the ‘Drupal’ system enables even activists from distant library units to themselves upload data, without waiting for a central web administrator.

A team of reader-activists from APNE Library, Wakro & Medo Library presented a session of book reading, recitation & story-telling before the distinguished gathering, demonstrating how the activists strive to stimulate interest in reading among the youth and parents. Lauding the young volunteers & the Library l/cs, the DC assured all support and patronage from the District administration to strengthen the library movement.